

Apprentice profile: Lilia Frunzo

Lilia has been working as an apprentice in business administration at Work Zone

I have been a Business Administration apprentice based at Work Zone. This role is a new experience for me, where I have enjoyed myself whilst learning and working. Prior to my apprenticeship I only had retail experience and I found myself wanting to do more in the long term. I was not sure how I could enter other roles without having the relevant experience. A friend told me to go and speak to a careers advisor and share my intention to change industries.

The careers advisor talked about the possibility of an apprenticeship. At first I was unsure because I thought it would be like studying again. I wanted to gain a practical understanding instead of just theory because I want to be able to find a job afterwards. I go to college as part of my apprenticeship. I have found the topics covered help me understand the big picture.

I appreciate the fact that they recognised my potential and gradually given me responsibilities over time.

I feel as though I have been able to demonstrate my value in my new career path.
